

Dr. Hans-Jörg Lutzeyer is senior policy officer at DG Research and Innovation, Directorate F (Bioeconomy), in the agri-food chain unit (FOOD 2030). He is involved in food systems research programming, knowledge systems, information, communication and precision technologies and global food security. In the EU-Africa research and innovation partnership on food and nutrition security and sustainable agriculture he is co-chair of the oversight working group. He is in charge of alignment of national research programmes being officer for the Joint Programming Initiative Agriculture, Food Security and Climate Change, several ERA-Nets and strategic working groups of the Standing Committee on Agricultural Research (SCAR) and contact to the European Technology Platform Organics.

He studied agricultural sciences at the University of Hohenheim, Germany, where he obtained his Ph.D. in 1991.