

Dr. Rupert Ebner is a veterinarian with over 30 years of experience in livestock practice. He is a member of the German Green Party and part of the working group “Ecology – Animals – Nature” of the Bavarian Green Party. In his hometown Ingolstadt he is head of the communal department of Environment, Health and Climate Protection, overseeing the local authorities of health, environment and forestry. As a member of Slow Food Germany, he is vice president of the Munich chapter and treasurer of the federal board. He is a renowned speaker and expert concerning animal welfare and animal health with a special interest in antibiotics use in livestock production.